Title Talk...

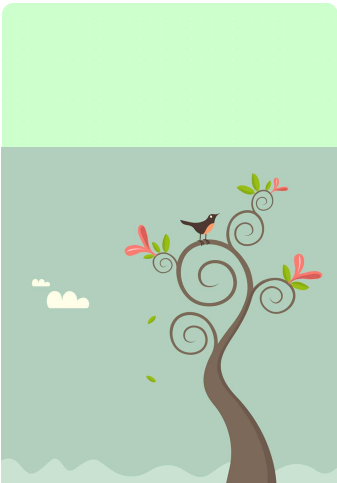

MAY 2009

Title Insurance is Usually the Last Thing a Homeowner Thinks About.

We want to keep it that way.

Every day in America, someone somewhere is buying or selling a home. And behind the scenes is the title insurance industry— a nationwide corps of detailed professionals who conduct in-depth searches to find and remedy any problems for the seller, buyer, or lender. Boundary disputes, liens, assessments, undisclosed heirs—the list of possible problems is considerable. Title Professionals look for these problems. Then they make every effort to resolve them so the deal can close and the home buyer can move in with peace of mind. Should a title problem arise in the future, an Owner's Policy of Title Insurance can provide complete protection— even to the point of paying for legal representation. Title Insurance isn't something homeowners should think about. It is simply something they should have. And just as the customer has a choice in choosing their Realtor® and Lending Institution, they also have the right to choose their Title Insurance Company. Please keep H.B. Wilkinson Title Company in mind for all of your title insurance needs. For your peace of mind and piece of real estate.
